If a player changes a weight category during the Grand Prix circuit the points in the weight category will be frozen and kept in the original weight category. Then 50% of the points are carried forward to the new category the player competes in. Points are only awarded for Bands A, B, and C, no points will be awarded for AA band players. Weight categories are listed as per the entry forms and Grand Prix Guidelines which have been used as standard for all Grand Prix events. If players fought in a combined weight category then points are awarded to the original weight category entered by the players. Players must fight in order to receive points. A trophy will only be awarded to the winner of each weight category. If there are insufficient numbers in a weight category, JudoScotland reserve the right to remove that category from the Grand Prix Final programme.

If a player changes a weight category during the Grand Prix circuit the points in the weight category will be frozen and kept in the original weight category. Then 50% of the points are carried forward to the new category the player competes in. Points are only awarded for Bands A, B, and C, no points will be awarded for AA band players. Weight categories are listed as per the entry forms and Grand Prix Guidelines which have been used as standard for all Grand Prix events. If players fought in a combined weight category then points are awarded to the original weight category entered by the players. Players must fight in order to receive points. A trophy will only be awarded to the winner of each weight category. If there are insufficient numbers in a weight category, JudoScotland reserve the right to remove that category from the Grand Prix Final programme.
